Voters opt for change, Walker beats incumbent in all but two polls Upset in Minden as Nesbitt ousted

by Sue Cooper

Anson, Hindon and Minden ratepayers turned their backs on incumbent reeve Sinc Nesbitt when they went to the polls on Monday. Nesbitt was defeated by Lloyd Walker, who won every poll but two in the municipality.

Walker won the contest with 626 votes while Nesbitt accumulated only 466 votes for a margin of 160 votes.

Nesbitt, who served for 10 years as reeve in Stanhope Township before he became reeve in Anson, Hindon and Minden two years ago, was bitter about his defeat.

"I'm sort of sour. If this is what the people want, to go back and have nothing...if they want to go back in their shell and just keep on blaming Dysart for their own problems, well, that's fine. That suits me. They can do that. But you can't win by putting your neighbour down," the outgoing reeve said in an interview Tuesday.

Nesbitt who won a single poll in Minden Village and one at Horseshoe Lake felt the turnaround was largely the result of stories and editorials in the Times newspaper in Minden which were critical of him.

"You know, I'm a complete turnaround to what Minden was used to; I believe in growth and everybody sharing what goes on. Plus The Times, of course, spent two years trying to get me and as far as I'm concerned, they did."

Nesbitt said reports in The Times concerning a cement plant locating on property he owns on the Minden by-pass, earlier this year, and a recent report on tendering of the new library/cultural centre, had not been accurate. His stand on the paper's reporting and editorial viewpoint came to a head this spring when he announced he would sue the publisher over an editorial which had criticized his actions on the cement plant issue.

In the past two years, Nesbitt said he had pushed for growth in the community without raising the taxes and still stayed within the township's budget.

"I've spent a year and a half to try to get her to move and finally we got rolling. Of course, it must not be what they (the people) want," Nesbitt said of his work in office.

"You know, if you can work all these new things within a budget without extending, then to me, that's the way you run a business," Nesbitt said.

However, the new reeve-elect, Lloyd Walker, has a different idea of how the business of the municipality should be run. In an interview on Tuesday, Walker said he would try to find areas where the township has been overspending and cut them down.

"There's only one way to go and that's you just treat it as a business. You would just go through each department, one by one, and see if there's anything that you could improve, maybe save the poor old taxman a dollar," Walker said.

Although Walker promised to give everybody a "fair and honest deal", he could not state a reason why he felt he had won the election.

Turner polled a total of 634 votes.

Incumbent reeve Murray Fearrey was acclaimed to office, as was incumbent deputy-reeve Harold Bannon.

The only other seat on council, Ward 111, was awarded to Sid Cooper by acclamation after incumbent Jack Denholm opted not to seek another term.

"That's anybody's guess. It's just the way elections go, I guess," Walker said.

"I can't say. This is the voice of the people, so I don't know, I'd only be guessing if I said anything. I guess you would say I've tried to use people fair all my life so I guess that's one reason," Walker said.

Nesbitt said he didn't feel he would ever run for council again.

"When I was in dominica, this summer, you know, I really considered quitting. Then, I got home and we got this growth pattern rolling and then of course, I was in heaven," Nesbitt said.

"So I just got the skids let out from under me. And, you know, if they'd have had a reason to take me down for it...but were still working within the budget. We were getting all these things for nothing, really."

The results of the election for councillors are still incomplete as candidates Larry Cummins and Ed Pergolas tied for the last seat at the table. Clerk, Elinor Burk said a judge will have to be contacted and a date set for a recount. If that fails to break the tie papers will be drawn from a hat. The recount is expected to take place within the next two weeks.

Topping the polls was incumbent councillor Lyle McKnight with 821 votes, followed by Dean Elliott with 756 votes and Cummins and Pergolas tied at 421 votes each. Unsuccessful candidate was Leroy Lichty with 366 votes.

Deputy reeve Doug Pritchard was acclaimed, as were school board trustees Don Booth and Lloyd Johnson.

Lutterworth slate returned at polls

The issue of a slate council that had prompted a number of hopefuls to run in Lutterworth council proved insignificant to the voters Monday as without exception, the incumbents were returned to office.

Only 16 percent of the township's eligible voters cast ballots.

All five council members, including reeve Ron Gambell and deputy-reeve Glynn Lewis, who was acclaimed, ran as a slate this time around, appearing as a group in newspaper advertisements which urged voters to return them as a block.

The tactic was attacked by challengers, Ingram Wessell, who sought the reeve's chair, and Floyd Pogue, who attempted to win a seat on council. Both men maintained that the former council got along too well, standing together on issues where dissenting points of view should have been heard. Both men felt people seeking municipal office should run on their own merits as individuals rather than as part of a team of incumbents.

Without exception, the four incumbents who were challenged for their seats denied the stands taken by Wessell and Pogue. Gambell and councillors Bill Prentice, Bill Valentine and Alan Stott all pointed to the progress that had been made in the municipality and to the fact that issues were discussed and dissenting points of view heard at every council meeting. None of the four could see any problem with a council standing together on a decision once it had been made.

The voters apparently agreed, as the incumbents were not seriously threatened at the polls.

Gambell took the reeve's spot with 285 votes. Wessell garnered 145 votes.

In the race for council, Bill Valentine topped the polls with 329 votes, while Prentice and Stott were also returned with 323 votes and 258 votes, respectively.

Dysart incumbents returned despite challenges for seats

Dysart et al ratepayers voted overwhelmingly to return incumbents to office, despite aggressive and well thought out campaigns from a number of strong challengers.

In one of the most interesting election races in the county, incumbents Roy Brohm and Gary McKnight staved off challengers for their council seats, while the four school board incumbents won in a five-way race.

The strongest challenge came in Ward 1, Haliburton Village, where veteran councillor Roy Brohm found himself in a three-way race with first time hopefuls Linda Beachli and Pat Kennedy. With more than 20 years of council experience under his belt, Brohm presented a formidable obstacle to the two newcomers, who sought to persuade voters that council needed 'new blood' and fresh ideas if the community was to move ahead on a number of important projects. Both promised aggressive representation but Brohm offered an inside knowledge of municipal and community affairs as well as a proven record of service, a combination which voters favoured more than two to one at the polls.

Final results showed Brohm well in front with 359 votes, while Beachli polled 147 votes. Kennedy ran a close third with 135 votes.

In the Ward 11 race, incumbent Gary McKnight won resounding support, despite a challenge from Tim Casey, who also promised new ideas in his bid to overthrow McKnight.

The results favoured McKnight more than three to one, as he polled 480 votes against Casey's 128.

In the race for seats on the Haliburton County Board of Education, incumbents Len Salvatori, Earl Cooper, Derrell Stamp and Nancy Stinson held off a challenge from first time hopeful Blanche Turner.

Like Beachli and Kennedy in Ward 1, Turner undertook an aggressive campaign that placed strong emphasis on the need for professional services to screen gifted and learning handicapped children. The stand may have hurt her chances, especially following an all candidates meeting where questions from some audience members allowed Turner to press the point repeatedly.

Len Salvatori once again topped the polls with 1161 votes. In second spot was Nancy Stinson with 951 votes, followed by Derrell Stamp with 886 votes and Earl Cooper with 876 votes.

Councillor opposed to community centre tops polls

Glamorgan vote shows split

Ratepayers in Glamorgan were definitely split on the proposal to establish a community centre in the village as the two different factions battled it out at the polls on Monday.

Incumbent deputy-reeve Bob McCausland, a permanent resident, who was in favour of establishing the centre, won the seat with 218 votes while his opponent Cecil Moore Osborne, a seasonal resident who wanted to postpone the construction of the centre, was close behind with 211 votes.

On Tuesday, the clerk, Elva Bates, said she had not yet been notified of any wishes for a recount of the ballots.

In the pre-election campaign, McCausland said he felt there was a great need for the community centre and he would back the idea.

Osborne, who was supporting the movement to postpone or possibly even cancel the centre, said he felt the seasonal residents paid a large share of the taxes and should have their wishes heard by council.

The number of voters at the advance polls was considerably higher than in other years, while the regular poll remained about the same, Bates said.

Another candidate, R. Jane Franklin, who topped the polls for council members, was also against building the community centre at this time if the community could not support it. Franklin, a seasonal resident who is president of the Stormy Lake Cottagers Association, received 258 votes in Monday's election.

Before the election, Franklin who resides in Thornhill, said she would have no trouble attending meetings as she does not work.

Motel/hotel resort complex planned for Paudash Lake

A large motel/hotel resort may soon be located on the shores of Paudash Lake in Cardiff Township.

A Whitby area firm has purchased the property with the hopes of establishing a large resort which would cater to semi-retired and retired people, according to Cardiff Township clerk, Gayle Billings.

In the recent past, George

Skinner, representing Hilltop Chev-Olds, has been making presentations to council concerning the development of the property, Billings said.

In 1979, the Federal Business Development Bank, FBDB, assumed ownership of the restaurant and small store. Then Hilltop Chev-Olds purchased the property from FBDB.

Mrs. George Exon, this year's Silver Cross mother, laid the first wreath Tuesday morning at Haliburton's Cenotaph during the annual Remembrance Day ceremony. Assisting her is Legion poppy chairman Ed Fujar.

Now Skinner is involved in renovations which are taking place on the property, Billings said.

The resort complex would hinge on a change in rezoning from highway commercial to a camping and trailer park resort, which the company has not applied for as yet, Billings added.

Members of the Royal Canadian Legion, Branch 129, Ontario Provincial Police, Scouts, Cubs, and the public, took part in a Remembrance Day ceremony at the Haliburton Cenotaph Tuesday morning. A number of wreaths were laid in memory of the men from Haliburton County who lost their lives in two world wars.

Only 19% of people cast votes in Monmouth

Only 19 percent of the eligible voters turned out to put their mark on the ballots in Monmouth Township, Monday.

One victory that had given promise of being closer than it turned out to be was for school board trustee, where incumbent Ross Anderson won an easy victory with 210 votes, 80 more than his only contender, Jean Thomas.

Thomas, who criticized the incumbent for the lack of communication between the board and the public, picked up 130 votes. Before the election, Thomas resigned her part-time position as secretary at the Wilberforce public school.

As a result of a ladder-type structure at the board of education, Anderson, who is vice-chairman at present, will move up to the chairman's position when the board forms for the next term.

The only other incumbent running for re-election was Alan Revill who re-gained his seat at the council table with 195 votes.

The newcomer who topped the polls, was Barry Dunford who received 252 votes. In the last election, Dunford ran for council but was unsuccessful.

Following Dunford by 33 votes was Harry Clark, who also ran unsuccessfully for the position of deputy-reeve in the last election.

The unsuccessful candidate for council was Reg Schofield who accumulated 157 votes.

When nominations closed on October 20, both reeve

Keith Tallman and Deputy-reeve Carman Coumbs had been acclaimed to office.

In the Monmouth election only 367 voters turned out at the polls to exercise their voting rights despite the fact that the next term has been touted as an important period for Monmouth.

The next year in the township will be filled with special festivities since it is the centennial year. A book containing the history of the area is also being published, according to Reeve Keith Tallman.

Snowdon voters return incumbents

All incumbents who opted to run for re-election in Snowdon Township were put back into office by the people on Monday.

Veteran reeve Bob Vick was re-elected after his former deputy-reeve Don Smedmore made another unsuccessful campaign to take the reeve's chair.

In the last election, Smedmore decided to make the move for the reeve's position but he was turned down at the polls.

Again, this election, claiming there was a better future for Snowdon than the former council had provided, he put his name before the public.

Vick walked away with 221 votes, 105 more than the 116 votes Smedmore accumulated.

In the deputy-reeve contest, incumbent John Francis picked up 229 votes to defeat Ray Cox, with 104 votes, by a margin of 125 votes.

Francis based his campaign on the importance of council working together in one direction to get some growth in Snowdon.

One of Francis' main interests at the local level is the continuation of the fledgling five-year road program which will help develop the township.

Cox, who made his first attempt at a council seat, was mainly concerned about the high rate of crime in the township, and suggested an operation identification program could be set up with the help of the OPP.

His other main issue was the establishment of a utilities commission at the county level. He explained this commission would be able to co-ordinate all the activities of the local utility companies to avoid unnecessary inconvenience of the public.

In the race for council seats, the top contender at the polls was Fred Simmons with 236 votes in his favour.

A close second to Simmons with just 18 votes less, was Bryan Neville with 218 votes.

The only incumbent councillor running for re-election was Dwain Wruth who was returned with 205 votes. The unsuccessful candidate was Burt Smith who picked up 178 votes, just 27 less than Wruth.

The incumbent school board trustee, Ralph Young, was acclaimed to his position.

Memories of life in a Japanese prison camp:

Reg Schofield's four year ordeal in Hong Kong did not end on the day he was freed

by Sue Cooper

As the years pass and memories fade, a few important events remain with startling clarity - memories, bad or good that cannot be blunted by time.

Reg Schofield of Wilberforce has one of those memories and even 40 years can't erase it from his mind. For four years, from 1942 to 1945, he was held captive in a Japanese prisoner of war (POW) camp in Hong Kong.

During those years his weight dropped to about 60 pounds, he suffered from diphtheria, dysentery, malaria and severe malnutrition. Still, he was one of the lucky ones. He survived.

Schofield began his career in the armed forces like most other red-blooded Canadians of war age did, when the call to arms came at the beginning of World War II. In 1940, at the age of 30, he enlisted in the First Midland Regiment training out of Lindsay.

After training sessions in Ottawa and Saint John, New Brunswick as a machine gunner and driver, on brengu carriers, Reg Schofield found himself serving guard duty on the Welland Canal at Niagara-on-the-lake in September, 1941.

When the call went out for 50 volunteers to go overseas Schofield put his name in.

"My brother, you see, was over in England in '39 and I'd been with this outfit for more than a year. I felt we were mountains. That's where we were."

"I was a machine-gunner so, at first I was with the Hong Kong volunteers. Now they were all the local merchants, trained. They were the best troops of the works. The Hong Kong Volunteers."

At this time the Allied troops were stationed at the ocean entrance to Hong Kong, to watch for the Japanese, Schofield said.

"Every evening we had a tent down there on a knoll on the golf course, right on the water, and we used to go down there and shove the tent up. We had night glasses so we could see at night. And we'd watch. All night."

"For them trying to sneak in."

Only Schofield, an officer and sergeant spent each night keeping watch for the enemy while many troops filled the mansions on the hills.

"We were in this big house and every day at noon, the Japs would shell us from the mainland. We used to get down in a big stone wall at the end of the garden. Every day at noon, we'd know when they were going to whistle. We'd get down there, wait and the shelling would go and then back we'd go to the house."

Schofield laughs a little when he tells the story now, in the comfortable surroundings of his Wilberforce home. But the memory is also unnerving.

"After about a week, we got word that the Japs had going no place, you know. So I wanted to get overseas. That's why I volunteered."

'We were pinned down there We couldn't move'

Schofield was soon on his way to Vancouver by train where he boarded a ship that would take him and the other volunteers to Allied-controlled Hong Kong.

On arrival in Hong Kong, Schofield was stationed at Sham Shui Po, in Kowloon, in a building that soon would serve as the diphtheria building in a Japanese POW camp.

Three days before the Japanese invaded Hong Kong, the Allied troops moved to the island off of mainland China.

"We were stationed in a big house, Colonels and that, had these great big mansions out in the country, in the landed on the island. So we had to back up because we'd be caught in that corner. We had to back up to the main highway."

"So we backed up across the big reservoir, there on the island and we moved right across the centre of it. We backed up beyond that. And then we were stationed right there."

"The next morning we got orders that we were going to advance on the Japs all along the line. And, you know, it's all mountains, mostly, except for the roads. Our outfit had to go up the mountain. So we went up and we got within about a 100 yards of the top of the hill when the shelling and mortars and machine gun fire

Reg Schofield, enlisted in the Armed Forces at the age of 30. He hoped to help the war effort so, a year and a half later he volunteered for overseas duty. If Schofield knew the pain, suffering, and mental strains he would suffer in the next four years as a Japanese prisoner of war, he probably would have been terrified.

and snipers were so bad we couldn't advance, no more."

Schofield stopped speaking and then he tried to skip the ensuing mission to downplay his part in the attack on the hill.

"We were pinned down there; we couldn't move."

His voice quickens.

"And they called for a volunteer. You see, we had nobody to back us, no guns, no mortars, no nothing behind us. All we had was was just on one side of the hospital, so I just joined them. Everybody, nurses, doctors, patients, everybody was killed there."

After joining his ranks again Schofield went back into the heat of the battle fighting for ownership of the island.

"We got orders that night to back up to Stanley Fort, that's the last place you could go. That's the end."

"That's right on the top of

"We got the line across the hill and in the middle of night they (Allied officers) sent word out that they'd surrendered the island. We had to come in and pile all our guns and our machine guns and everything in a heap at the guard house gate."

The Allied troops were kept prisoner in Stanley Fort for a week before they were moved to the prison camps.

"They made us march, oh, six or 10 miles, down to the machine guns and rifles."

"So the officer asked for a volunteer to go up and..." Schofield pauses "hand grenade the Japs off the top of the hill."

Schofield was the man who volunteered and then the officer, realizing the importance of this job, asked for another volunteer to help Schofield.

"He said 'one wouldn't likely make it', so he called for another one. We went up the hill and threw six grenades each. We drove the Japs off the top. Then we had a bayonet charge and took the hill."

"Well it was desperate. We knew we were going to get killed. And another thing, of course, we were told not to be taken prisoners. You were going to be killed if you were taken prisoner."

"The next thing I remember, I was in the hospital in Stephen's Boys College in Stanley Village."

Schofield said he was shell shocked and had to spend the few days in the Allied hospital to recuperate.

"I was in there for about three days, and they were bombing and shelling the hospital. Then the Japs were coming right up to the hospital. The windows were quite high, you know, and the bullets were going right through the building. Right in one window and out the other."

"So I wouldn't stay. I said to myself 'I'm not staying here any longer, it's going to be a death trap.' Our outfit a mountain. We were there for one day. I was better off because the other guys had had no water or food for days."

"We were in a garage there. And they were bombing the garage. It must have been the evening of the twenty-fourth, because we surrendered on the twenty-fifth, just when the sun was going down, this British officer gave the order that we had to go down this road. And the road was cut out of the mountain, like up there would be hundreds of feet and there was the road and then there was hundreds of feet down to the water," Schofield points straight up to the ceiling and then down to the floor.

"The sun was shining real brilliant. And when we started down the road, the Japs started shell fire, coming right up that road."

"When we got right down to the bottom, there was a guard house gate and we were going to put a line of troops below Stanley Fort, right over the mountain. From the water on the side to the water on the other side, so that the Japs couldn't come in."

"And when we were going down this road the shell fire was so bad that when we got down near the bottom, the bodies were there by the hundreds."

Schofield took a very long pause and rubbed his hands.

"We had to run right over top of them."

Another pause, then Schofield begins again.

old refugee camp, North Point Refugee camp. It was right on the harbour."

"At first they gave us our own rations, you know, food. But then after about oh, a couple of months, they took all that out of the camp and all we got was rice. Three times a day."

Across from the refugee camp where Schofield and the other Allies were being held captive, a large hill named the "holy hill" jutted up beside the airport. When the British were in control of Hong Kong the hill had been left untouched because the Chinese had used it to bury their ancestors in tunnels, Schofield said.

"When the Japs got it, we took and moved that whole hill with a pole on your back and a basket on each end. Oh, there was thousands of us. We moved that whole hill down into the water to level that airport."

After six months the prisoners were moved from the refugee camp into the Sham Shui Po prisoner of war camp on the mainland.

"When we first got to the camp (Sham Shui Po) we had to go out in working parties."

During these working parties, the prisoners were forced to help the Japanese with their war effort by dismantling damaged aircraft so the metal could be used again and by cleaning up destroyed buildings.

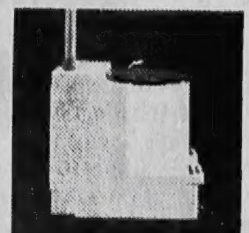

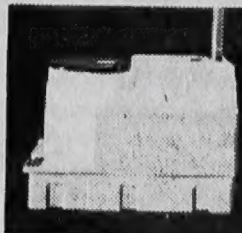

"Another job we used to do was to tunnel in the hills, like air raid shelters. That's what

The people's choice

For the second time in two years, voters in Anson, Hindon and Minden have demonstrated that they have little affection for incumbent reeves. In 1978, Sinc Nesbitt joined the political fray after 10 years at the helm of Stanhope and defeated incumbent Reg Booth. Monday, the voters indicated their dissatisfaction with Nesbitt's performance by ousting him out of office. In his place they elected Lloyd Walker, a first time candidate for the reeve's chair with a history of 12 years experience on Lutterworth council.

In dumping Nesbitt, the voters of Anson, Hindon and Minden have made an extremely significant decision. It remains to be seen whether or not the decision was made for the right reasons. If, as Nesbitt claims, it came because the municipality's ratepayers would rather take a parochial view of local and county affairs than put aside long standing prejudices, then it was an unfortunate decision indeed. If, on the other hand, it was made because the majority of voters believe Walker is more capable of moving the municipality and county ahead than was Nesbitt, its rightness can only be judged by the light of the future.

Nesbitt is out of office, and has said he will retire from municipal politics. By asking themselves why it happened, and being honest about the answers, the voters of Anson, Hindon and Minden can learn a valuable lesson about their collective view of municipal affairs.

There are a number of possible reasons for Monday's turn of events. No one of them was, in itself, enough to bring the former reeve down. Taken together however, the major decisions of the last two years clearly combined to turn voters against Nesbitt. Did ratepayers, in focusing on those decisions miss the broader picture, both in terms of Nesbitt's approach to municipal politics and his accomplishments as reeve?

It is a question that begs an answer, and the answer must come from every individual who voted.

Sinc Nesbitt was nothing if not a forceful reeve. He spoke out aggressively on virtually every major issue the municipality faced. At county council he put Anson, Hindon and Minden first, but unlike many other reeves and deputy-reeves who serve on that body, he could also take a county-wide view. He sometimes spoke out before all the facts were clear. He could be tenacious in his stubbornness. He often angered people. And in the two years that he served as reeve in Anson, Hindon and Minden, he was certainly guilty of some errors in judgement. But were they serious enough to warrant his defeat? A voter who takes the broad view may well conclude that they were not.

Each of the major issues that surfaced over the last two years found voters split on who was right and who was wrong. In attempting to force a confrontation with the Ministry of Transportation and Communications over the road budget, for example, Nesbitt and his council could be viewed as David's taking on a formidable Goliath, or as grandstanders trying to pass off internal problems. The same could be said of their stand on suing the Ministry of the Environment for incomplete repairs to village streets after sewer installation. But two key issues lie at the heart of the reeve's defeat; the cement plant and the new library.

In the first instance, Nesbitt found himself in a difficult position after a cement plant being built on property he owned was found to contravene the municipal zoning by-law. He was accused of using his position as reeve wrongly, and of deliberately flouting municipal regulations. In fact however, Nesbitt did no more than use bad judgement, an error he compounded by attempting to defend his position instead of admitting that an innocent mistake had been made. It was a tactic that proved costly, as Monday's election shows. But it was not a tactic that should have tipped the scales against him.

The second issue that was key in his defeat was the decision to ignore tenders on a block library building and accept a proposal from local businessman Ronald Wrightman. The move undermined the tendering process and angered many people. It should not have been made so hastily, or with so little regard for others in the municipality who might also have been capable of constructing the building, albeit not as quickly. But two things should be kept in mind. Firstly, it was a decision of council, not of the reeve alone. And secondly, it was made for the right reasons, even if it was made in the wrong way.

Few can dispute that Nesbitt was trying to move the municipality ahead. Few can doubt that he had what he took to be the best interests of the majority in mind, during his term as reeve.

The new reeve ran without a platform, saying only that he was honest and would work hard. His only commitment is that he will look at every department with a view to cutting spending.

Do taxes matter more than progress? Does conciliation matter more than forcefulness? Will Minden forge ahead or fall behind? Will pettiness and insularity prevail over wisdom and a broad view?

These are questions which will underly the events of the next two years. How they are answered will say much about the people's ability to choose the right man for the job.

Lest we Forget

LETTERS to the EDITOR

To the Editor:

The recent decision of the Minden Library Culture Centre Committee to accept the proposal from 1867 Confederation Log Homes, and the way in which it was handled, seemed very suspicious, and after one week, I brushed it off as a sham!

After reading last week's letter to the Editor by the library committee, I couldn't take any more trash about "decisions being popular with everyone" or "ethical ways of doing business". Why does this committee feel obligated to print an explanation of their actions. I think their efforts just made matters worse.

The fact that Minden chose a log structure to serve as their library is great, and providing all interested builders in the area had a chance to quote on the job, it really doesn't matter who wins. What does matter is the ratepayers, or the donors, or from wherever the money came, have the right to get the best value for their dollars. Why the committee didn't go shopping is quite a mystery.

In conclusion, it may interest these people to know that the log project under construction in Carnarvon, was basically lost by Confederation Log Homes because they were too expensive. There were alternatives!

Yours truly,
Stephen Cooper,
Log Builder

To the Editor:

I was very disturbed on hearing that Confederation 1867 Log Homes had been awarded the Minden library contract.

I feel that a municipal building is a showcase for the community and represents the attitudes and people of that community, and if that building is going to be of log construction, something that is unique, it should be a handcrafted log building not a manufactured timber one.

I give credit to Mr. Wrightman for going to the council meeting and submitting a tender, even though the original specifications were for a block building, but do feel that log builders in this area should be given the opportunity to also submit a tender since the specifications have now been changed.

It was stated, in the Minden Times, that the other log builders had been contacted the morning of the council meeting. I spoke to two out of the three log builders in this area and neither one had been notified and since both groups are the major and best known log builders in the area, I wonder who was notified.

I also feel that the library being in this county, and representing it, should be built, if the cost is approximately the same, by someone who not only lives in this area but has their company here and supports it.

In all fairness I feel that the decision should be delayed even for one week, to give log builders in this area the opportunity, if they wish, to submit bids.

Yours truly,
Ellen Brown,
Blairhampton

To the Editor:

The Library-Cultural Centre Committee has considered floor plan after floor plan. Then why a log building? A feasibility study was mandatory in order to qualify for a Wintario grant. The study by the firm of Nicol and Johnston recommended a useable space of 2430 sq. ft. The split block construction fell short of this area by 69 sq. ft. of useable space. The additional space gained by the 6" log wall as compared to a 14" wall width with 2" X 4" studs was 216 sq. ft. This extra space has been added to the common room, which at 675 sq. ft. will be able to accommodate such gatherings as the Horticultural Society, Women's Institute, and any other groups needing a meeting place. Since many senior citizens belong to these groups it should be a boon to them since it will not be necessary to climb stairs.

All doors in the centre - which includes the library, art gallery and common room, are 34" wide to admit wheelchairs. A ramp shall be installed at the 2 step entrance.

Both the planned split block wall and the 6" log wall have an R factor of 12. The 6" log has been tested by the government and hydro to give an R12 factor in resisting heat loss. Small pieces of wood are readily flammable. However, logs compactly fitted will char but beyond that it takes a long time for them to burn. Insurance of $100,000 will cost $200 per year. The heat bill as estimated by hydro will be just over $1,200 if the rooms are constantly at 72 degrees.

The shell of the log building has a finished interior. The erection of studs, etc. (amounting to 2211 linear feet), 20 bundles of 90 sq. ft. each R12 insulation batts and 78 sheets of 1/2" gyproc installed and finished would cost $5000.00. This will not have to be expended on the log building.

Since the art gallery and its work space is over 100 sq. ft. short of the allotted feasibility space, it has been agreed that the larger pictures will hang on the walls of the common room, for this room well exceeds the recommended space. The common room shall have a moveable dividing wall so that it may be divided for work sessions.

The council would accept the log structure over the split block building if this was the wish of the Library Cultural Centre Committee. The committee agreed unanimously since it provided extra space equal to a room 12' X 17' 6" in size. They realized the cost would be more but that $5000 could be deducted as the inside walls were finished. The 210 sq. ft. extra space would also have to be considered in any cost comparison.

The above has to do with dollar and common-sense. The committee felt that the aesthetic value of the log building was far beyond that of a split block. The outstanding McMichael Gallery at Kleinberg is of log. We felt the uniqueness of its structure would enhance its value as an attraction both in the county and beyond Minden most afford that which entices the public to this locality. Here we need a culture centre to develop a four square growth. Most parents hope for a better development climate for their children than they themselves had. It has been the aim of the

by Creighton Feir

Well, here I am back at work with my two weeks' holidays over and I'm ready for the old grind once again. It's nice to get away from it for awhile but it's always nice to get back and into the swing of things once again. During these two weeks away from the business I had time to reflect on some of the things that I happened to notice are going on in this county. On Monday night I attended the meeting of the Rotary Club of Minden and had the opportunity to listen to Major Glynne Lewis, who gave a very interesting and educational talk on the present war between Iran and Iraq and some of the history behind these two countries and the problems they have had leading up to the war. Before this meeting I also had time to view the outside of the new Minden Curling Rink which is being constructed in the fairgrounds near the Minden Recreation Centre. It's going to be a big building and one that the citizens of Minden can be very proud of. It will certainly be a big improvement over the old one. Highland Plumbing and Heating are also making headway with their new building. In Haliburton, Bruce Bounsall is making great headway with his new body shop which will be located on the dump road. Most of the work on the exterior of the building is completed. The new offices of the Haliburton County Board of Education will soon be ready and are located between the secondary and elementary schools in Haliburton. Work is continuing on the interior of the new restaurant which is being constructed next to the Haliburton Red and White store.

Last week was the first time that I really had the opportunity to look over the new park on Head Lake. It's coming right along and one can't help but notice that the fountain at the park is now lit up at nights. If you get a minute one of these days why not take the time to drop down and look over the new park.

I was sorry to hear that we are still having our share of vandalism and break-ins in the Village of Haliburton. A Haliburton man has been charged with break, enter and theft and possession of stolen property following an incident November 1 at Black's Home Hardware Store. Police report the front window of the store was broken and a colour television set removed from the display.

The municipal elections in Haliburton are now history and we wish to take this opportunity to congratulate the winners and to the losers, you can always say wait for two more years. Our congratulations also to those who received an acclamation.

Wayne Rutter of Wilberforce will be the guest speaker when the Brotherhood of Anglican Churchmen hold their monthly communion and breakfast at St. George's Anglican Church at Haliburton, this Sunday, November 16 at 8:00 a.m.

The Haliburton Huskies are into the second month of their Junior hockey schedule but unfortunately not too many people care if they win or lose. Before this season got underway manager Don Lloyd and coach Larry Hartin, plus the members of the Huskies executive spent many hours of their time making plans to move the Huskies from Junior D competition to a higher bracket, 'C' hockey. For a while it looked as if Haliburton for the first time just couldn't seem to find a league to place their team in for competition. Lloyd and Hartin, the fighters that they are, refused to give up and landed the team in the eight team Georgian Bay Junior "C" hockey league which takes teams from Parry Sound, Oro, Penetang, Gravenhurst, Bracebridge, Huntsville, Midland. After all this effort of getting the team in the league and then icing a team that is playing exciting hockey it must be very discouraging to the management and players to find that at most home games at the arena in Haliburton they find themselves playing to only a handful of fans. This lack of support not only effects the play of the players but if this continues the Huskies will find that it will be very hard to operate a hockey club financially. In two home games played recently there were only 75 fans at each game. Let's try and keep this team in Haliburton by supporting the club by our attendance at their home games. You know what they say, "You never miss the water until the well runs dry".

I was surprised when I turned the television on one afternoon recently to see Orval McLean, popular Lindsay auctioneer being interviewed on an afternoon show. The programme took us down to the Orval McLean Auction Centre outside of Lindsay to see Orval in action at several of his indoor and outdoor sales. Orval is quite a busy man and when he is not auctioneering you will find him at Midtown Sports, a sporting good store that he owns and operates on William Street in Lindsay. He seems to be on the go all of the time but he always manages to take some time out to play some hockey and he also takes an active interest in the hockey team in Lindsay and district. Orval made the statement when being interviewed that there are more auctioneers in the country today than ever before.

The Haliburton U.C.W. are holding their "Christmas County Fair" on Saturday, November 15 from 2 to 4 p.m. Children's table and fish pond, babysitting will be available. Come and enjoy an afternoon of fun.

The citizens of Haliburton and surroundings area were saddened last Friday afternoon when they learned of the death of a well-known Haliburton man Stan Parish, who was in his 69th year. Stan, who had not been in the best of health for the past two years, is certainly going to be missed by all those who knew him. He was a gentleman at all times and his great sense of humour, gift of gab and that ever present pleasant smile always made him a great hit with people young and old. When he owned and operated Stan's Texaco at the top of Dover's Hill near Haliburton, many people would go up and visit him whether they needed gas or not, just to listen to him give his opinion on the topic of the day. He rested at the Gordon A. Monk Funeral Home in Minden and the funeral service was held in the Chapel on Monday, November 10. Interment at Evergreen Cemetery, Haliburton.

William Giles was Haliburton's doctor from 1886 to 1909

DOCTOR WILLIAM GILES 1886-1909

Doctor William Giles was born near Oshawa in 1858 and after graduating from Trinity College in 1886, began his practice in Haliburton. A few years later he married a daughter of Douglas Kellett and they had a family of four boys and four girls. The youngest son, Murray Giles, who retired from the Toronto Star in 1970, lives in Haliburton. Douglas Kellett was proprietor of the Queen's Hotel which burned about 1890 and the lot was vacant from that time until the L.C.B.O. constructed a liquor store in 1959. Dr. Giles took a very important part in the affairs of the community. He was Reeve of Dysart et al for eleven years, first from 1896 to 1900, then from 1903 to 1905 and again from 1907 to 1909. He was Warden of the Provisional County of Haliburton in 1897 and again in 1909. He was also a charter member and the first worshipful Master of North Entrance Masonic Lodge. The first meeting of the lodge was held on October 16, 1903. Because of failing health he returned to Oshawa and in 1913 he moved to Pacific Avenue in Toronto where he died at the age of 63 years and was buried in the Evergreen Cemetery at Haliburton. Dr. Giles was also the owner of a general store and this building still stands on the S.W. corner of Highland Street and Maple Avenue. This business was managed by a Mr. Wilkinson and later by H. H. Clark. The doctor's office was a small room at the back portion of the store. He sold this property to his brother-in-law, Charles Kellett, in 1909, when the Giles family moved to Oshawa. Our thanks to Ron Curry of Haliburton for submitting this photo.

Students Enthusiastic About Career Information

The grade 12 and 13 students at Haliburton high school showed their very real appreciation last week for the efforts that went towards the organization of a local "Career Week". Clubs and organizations plus individuals Ken Rydman and Art Ward all received plaques from the Student Council in gratitude for the part they played in the week's activities. That they would respond so enthusiastically indicates how long overdue such a program has been.

Not just our Chamber, but many throughout Ontario have been expressing concern for some time about the lack of direction students are getting towards the career they wish to pursue. You can't blame the schools or their counsellors completely for how can they be expected to be fully aware of the many factors that are involved in the choosing of a career. No one person can have access to all that is required. By bringing together businessmen involved in almost 30 different fields of endeavour the students were able to obtain detailed descriptions of what to expect in each.

The response from the students and the community was encouraging. The School Board must now be convinced to allow more time to be devoted to carrying out the program. Of the 30 presentations that were available the students could select only three, and from three excellent panel presentations they were limited to attending only one. In addition, participation was allowed only to grades 12 and 13 and there is no reason to expect that those in grade 9 are not equally concerned with their future.

The board is concerned with losing time from classroom studies -- and well they should be -- but the classroom topics become far more meaningful when the students gain a better feeling for the end result of what they are doing. This year was an excellent beginning for what is hoped to be a largely expanded program in years to come.

Guild Concert Series sold out

The Haliburton Guild of Fine Arts packaged a series of four concerts beginning on November 14 with Maple Sugar, and followed by The Guild Choir on December 10, The Women of Margaret Lawrence on February 20, and Maureen Forester on April 26. The response to this series has been exceptional and they now advise us that all seats for all performances have been sold.

What's New

We reported earlier that Wig-a-mog was acquiring an indoor pool, but while Betz Pools were here they installed not one but two pools which will be fully enclosed. Locarno-on-the-Lake was the additional installation site and we can expect to see a lot of year round activity around these resorts in the coming years. This is just one more example of how determined resort operators are becoming to overcome the traditional two or three month season, and it's paying off throughout the community.

Bill Smiley

It's like being a shipyard worker at the launching of the Titanic. Or an usher at a Hollywood premiere. Or a nurse at the birth of a baby. You are part of it all, but an insignificant one, compared to the central drama.

My wife is going all the way to Moosonee to visit her daughter and grandboys for two weeks, and I feel about as important in the entire tour de force as the people mentioned above.

I'm quite sure that Scott's preparations for getting to the South Pole didn't cause nearly as much fuss in Britain as have my wife's for getting to Moosonee, in our house.

Mind you, it's not just like jumping on a bus and going to the city for a day or two. Getting to Moosonee is only slightly less difficult than getting to the Galapagos Islands.

You can fly, of course, for an arm and a leg. It's cheaper to fly to England and back than to Moosonee and back. And to catch your plane, you have to be there at some unearthly hour like 6:30 a.m.

That meant for us, me getting up at 5 a.m., driving 160 miles round trip, and being at work at nine.

Or she could take a cab to the airport, for $55.00. Add that to the airfare, going and coming, and you could fly to Hawaii, which would make a lot more sense, this time of year.

Or she could go down the night before, spend $35.00 for a hotel room and then take a cab to the airport, for $10.00. Plus a couple of meals. It still comes out to about $55.00.

These are some of the alternatives I put forward. I'm not skinflint. But my wife is, in some respects. When I go to the city alone, I take cabs everywhere. When she goes alone, she takes the subway, or walks.

I said, in some respects. She'll save string, bargain for prices in the supermarket like an Oriental cook, abhors wastage of three cents worth of food.

But then she'll hit me with something that keeps me staggering for a week. One day, when I was a student, and our total income was around $100 a month, she blurted, rather fearfully, I must admit, that she had bought a new sewing machine. There went a month's income. It didn't upset me, really, because I've never been much interested in money.

However, it did plant a little seed of something in my mind, so that, when I came home one day and she announced she'd bought a grand piano, for approximately one year's income, at the time, I was not bowled over, just slightly stunned. I digress.

Anyway, she wasn't going to pay that kind of money to get to Moosonee and back. The return trip, by air, is just as bad. The blasted plane gets in around 7:30 at night, and if you'll just turn all the driving time, and cab-fare and stuff around, it's the same deal.

Getting this out of the way took about two weeks, as she relentlessly tore apart every suggestion I made. She decided to go by train. This is a little cheaper, but just as complicated.

Again, she'd have to go to the city to catch the train, travel overnight, change at Cochrane, spend two or three hours in that salubrious resort, in the fall, doing lord-only-knows-what, before boarding the Polar Bear Express and a journey of anywhere from four to six hours to Moosonee.

The Express is probably the last of its kind in Canada. It stops in the middle of nowhere to avoid hitting a moose, to pick up a trapper, or to drop supplies for a prospector. That's why it doesn't run right to the minute.

Alternative. The train she's to catch stops at some god-forsaken junction, out in the middle of nowhere, forty miles from here. At 11:30 p.m. That was her final decision. It would save the time and money of going to the city and catching it there. But she didn't want me to drive her, and get home at 1 a.m. She knows how I hate night driving, and figured I'd go off the road if she weren't there to shriek, "There's the sign for the turnoff!", which I had seen five seconds earlier.

O.K. Get a cab. Thirty-five bucks. Too much. A week after the final decision, I've hired a student to drive her to the junction. Only fifteen bucks. Then he wanted to take his girlfriend. Then my wife wanted to know if I were coming, to say goodbye at the junction. Holy Old Moses! Or Holy Old Home Week.

Those were only the travel details. The others are too numerous and miscellaneous.

Report from Queen's Park

by MPP John Eakins

Of particular interest and concern to the Lindsay part of our riding is the closing of the Armstrong plant. I well recall when this industry was getting underway in 1966, and followed by several quick expansions. No doubt there are a number of reasons for the closing of this plant and many others across the province.

The Honourable Larry Grossman is quick to tell us all how many new jobs have been created, but he never tells how many jobs are lost through the many plant closings. However, we do know it is very significant.

There have been a number of interesting developments in the discussions of the Select Committee on Plant Closings and Employee Adjustment. Although I am not a member of this new Select Committee at Queen's Park, I have nevertheless sat in on the meetings out of concern for my riding.

The Minister of Consumer and Commercial Relations told the committee that the government wants changes to pension laws enacted by the end of the year to protect employees laid off by plant closings. Key problems are underfunded private pension plans and employees who are close to early retirement who can't get benefits when a company folds. The minister said he hoped to bring in amendments to the Pension Benefits Act in time to be passed before the end of the current session - in mid-December.

Changes to the pension law are part of a five point program to deal with plant closings announced by the government last month. When the Minister of Labour announced the program he said that pension law changes would, for example, permit a worker of long service to get his full pension benefits when he reaches early retirement age, even though his company has closed and the pension plan has been terminated. Another change would create a government-administered fund to guarantee pension rights in those cases where terminated plans were not fully funded. The Minister of Consumer and Commercial Relations said he didn't know whether this fund would cover all the private pension plans in Ontario. Apparently about 1.7 million Ontario workers, representing about 40 percent of the labour force, have private pension plans.

There appears to be differences of opinion between the two ministers on this question of pensions. The Minister of Labour said that changes would be interim in nature, designed to solve a problem until the government receives a Royal Commission report on the status of pensions in Ontario. However, the Minister of Consumer and Commercial Relations has stated that if the changes are successful, they could remain, unless a total revamping of pension laws is recommended by the Royal Commission.

The number of Ontario workers on indefinite layoff has almost doubled in the first nine months of 1980, compared to the same period last year, but the Minister of Labour blames the auto industry slump, not plant closings, for the big increase.

Government spending on acid rain

The Honourable John Roberts, Minister of the Environment, has announced that the Canadian government will spend $41 million between now and 1984 to combat acid rain.

In a speech presented before the National Conference on the Environment held in Toronto on the occasion of Canadian Environment Week, Roberts said the Canadian Cabinet has approved the joint submission of three government departments to launch a comprehensive scientific, engineering and socio-economic research program to design strategies to control acid-causing pollutants, to lessen their adverse effects and to protect the fisheries resource in Canada. Besides Environment Canada, the Departments of Fisheries and Oceans, and Health and Welfare, will participate. The resulting knowledge is also required to substantiate Canada's position in seeking cooperative action from the United States.

These activities are in addition to on-going research by the Departments of Energy, Mines and Resources and Agriculture Canada into other potential areas of acid rain impact.

Environment Canada will devote $7.5 million to its acid rain program in 1980-81.

I welcome the decision of the three levels of government to proceed with the construction of a major convention centre for Metro Toronto. For years, my leader and I have been raising this issue in the Provincial Legislature in an attempt to convince the government of the benefits of a facility which would attract large numbers of tourists to our province.

In 1977, our party's task force on tourism was presented with a list of 71 major associations which could not hold their conventions in Toronto due to the lack of facilities. At the same time, we were informed of other large organizations which had held their conventions here, but would not be returning because the space available had been inadequate or unsuitable.

The Liberal Task Force Report recommended that the three levels of government and the private sector finalize discussions on the convention centre without delay so that construction could begin. We also called for the facility to be used as a central point for the "marketing" of Ontario and its many tourist attractions. This could be accomplished by the establishment of an information, promotion and distribution centre in the facility to provide convention delegates with an opportunity to discover the whole of Ontario as a vacation paradise and, perhaps, even to make reservations at various resorts.

Not only would such a centre bring in immediate revenue, it would also counteract the seasonal nature of our tourism trade, which is one of its greatest handicaps. Conventions generally take place in the fall or the spring since people holiday in the summer. By attracting tourists in the spring and fall the new centre would, in effect, lengthen our tourist season.

It has been estimated that about 10% of the membership in large American associations is Canadian. Thus, there is considerable incentive for many associations to choose Toronto as a convention site. Furthermore, Toronto can attract conventions because of its reputation as a safe city for families.

COUNTY ECHO SPORTS

The Haliburton Huskies are having trouble with consistency this season. In some games they click and in others, they can't seem to muster much offense or defense. They lost twice over the weekend, to Gravenhurst Friday and to Penetang Sunday.

Huskies drop two matches to top Junior C contenders

The Haliburton Huskies dropped a pair of games over the weekend in two of their worst outings this year.

Friday the Huskies were on the road to face Gravenhurst, perhaps the most potent team in the league. To win, the Huskies needed an exceptional effort from all of their players. But it wasn't to be. Instead, they were kept off the scoreboard until the third period and by then they were trailing by an insurmountable seven goals.

The first period was a chippy affair, with both teams using their sticks a little too much for the referee's liking. A total of 20 penalties were called before the period ended, nine against the Huskies and 11 against Gravenhurst.

In the scoring department, however, it was Gravenhurst all the way. The opening goal came at 2:35 while Mike Rae was off on a cross checking call, and Gravenhurst scored twice more in the period, at 12:47 and at 17:29.

The second period also belonged to Gravenhurst, as they added to their lead at 1:32, at 18:43 on a power play, and with just 17 seconds left.

In the third period, Gravenhurst stretched their lead to seven with a goal at 1:28. The Huskies finally got on the board at 3:33 when Shaun Chapman teamed up with Robb Abbs.

At 10:43, however, the home team made it 8-1. At 11:05, Haliburton got another one, this time from Don Manary with help from Darrin MacInnis and Ron Yake.

At 12:08, Gravenhurst moved out in front 9-2, but the Huskies managed one more, at 14:20 shorthanded when the team's leading scorer, Chris Hodgson connected unassisted.

At 16:05 of the period, with the Huskies a man short, Gravenhurst made it 10-3 to round out the scoring.

Still smarting from the defeat, the Huskies were at home Sunday afternoon for a game against another strong team, Penetang. And despite the support of the home town crowd, they still couldn't muster an offense.

The opening period belonged to Penetang, as they scored on a power play at 10:20, and again with barely five seconds left to play.

In the second period, Penetang racked up two more, at 4:34 while they were shorthanded and at 12:45 while Jim Lee was off for elbowing.

The third period was also one sided, with Penetang scoring their fifth at 3:34, their sixth at four minutes, and their seventh at 5:13.

Haliburton's lone goal in the game came at 13:42 when Dave Nicholls found the mark, assisted by Chris Hodgson and Kevin O'Hara. Final score was Penetang 7, Haliburton 1.

LKTA floor hockey tournament Friday

The third annual Lake Kashagawigamog Tourist Association floor hockey tournament is scheduled to get underway this Friday evening with teams arriving from many areas in southern Ontario and United States.

Competing for the championship trophies will be teams from Haliburton, Lakefield, Peterborough, Agincourt and area, Battle Creek, Michigan, Oshawa and Windsor.

Competition should be excellent in both the girls and boys divisions of the tournament. Students aged 13 and 14 years-old will be playing for their respective areas.

The tournament will be held throughout the weekend with the first game getting underway at 7 p.m. when Haliburton girls will be playing off with Prince of Wales School from Peterborough. The next game will feature Haliburton boys matched up with a team from Lakefield, followed by another Haliburton girls team playing against Agincourt.

Action starts again on Saturday morning at 9 a.m. with play continuing throughout the day. The last game begins at 5 p.m.

On Sunday morning the consolation and championship games in both the girls and boys divisions will be held.

Everyone is welcome to come to the Haliburton Senior Elementary School to watch the exciting action throughout the weekend. Food and refreshments will be available at the school.

OMHA atoms begin season

Haliburton atoms play tough games

The Haliburton OMHA Atoms started their 1980-81 season by playing three very competitive games.

In the league opener against Beaverton, the Haliburton boys were a little slow in getting organized and Beaverton scored the lone goal of the first period within one minute of play. Good goaltending by Gavin McKnight kept the Beaverton team scoreless until the third period when they scored their second goal. Haliburton came to life at this point and pulled within one goal of Beaverton on a pretty three-way passing play with Erin Nicholls scoring on assists from Phillip Johnston and Greg Scheffee. With the goalie pulled and six attackers in the Beaverton zone, Haliburton had the pressure on in the last minute but could not score.

In the rematch with Beaverton at home, the result proved quite a bit different. Although Beaverton opened the scoring in the first period, the rest of the game belonged to a strong Haliburton team. Just two minutes into the second period, Ron Perrin on an end to end rush beat the Beaverton netminder with a strong shot to the upper corner. Ten minutes later, Erin Nicholls scored his first of two goals after being neatly setup by Al Rydman. In the early minutes of the third period, Jaro Cooper kept the scoring going by banging home a goal on passes from Jeff Warburton and Erin Nicholls. Five minutes later, Erin Nicholls completed the scoring for Haliburton on a pretty goal, set up by Drew Mitchell and Ben Packard. Final score was Haliburton 4, Beaverton 2.

On Saturday, Haliburton travelled to Minden to complete their busy week's schedule. Although Halibur-ton totally dominated the play, Minden goalie Darrel Walker just could not be beaten and the game ended in a 0-0 tie.

Haliburton's record for the week was one win, one loss and one tie.

Tri-County atoms win two straight

The Haliburton Tri-County Aoms played two games over the weekend and came up with convincing wins in both of them.

Saturday, the squad was at home against Beaverton for a game that proved to be entirely one-sided.

Scoring in the first period were Kelly Youngdale unassisted and Colin Hunter with an assist from Steve Prime.

In the second period, Charlie Franklin scored unassisted, and Hunter got his second assisted by Franklin.

In the third, Sheldon Perry scored with an assist from Scott McKee, Randy Bird tallied with an assist from Franklin, Prime scored twice assisted by Youngdale.

Brady Tunall notched one with help from Franklin, Hunter scored from Franklin, and Perry connected from Youngdale.

Nightmares of Hong Kong still haunt him

they were. One time we were taken back to the island up to Bowen Road hospital, right up in the mountains. And every day we used to walk, maybe two or three miles down to Happy Valley race track. Those Japs were racing horses all this time."

"There was about 30 acres of land inside the race track and we had to grub hoe that whole thing. Just like plowing it. They put a line right across that whole thing and we had to grub hoe that. It was all quack, you know."

"We got five minutes off on the hour. If anybody fell down, they just grabbed them and dragged them out of the road and kept on going. They (the Japanese guards) were standing right behind you, you bet."

"These Japs were always wanting to hit you with the butt of their gun." Schofield tried to laugh.

"In the evening we'd have to walk that three miles, all up hill to the hospital, eating rice, a little can that big around, (Schofield makes a small circle with his hands) three times a day."

When the job of grub hoeing the entire 30 acres

The barracks were filthy and extremely grim with hardly any windows, Schofield recalled.

"Oh, the bed bugs and lice would eat you alive. Oh my God, yeah."

"When we first went in there, there was nothing. We slept around the floor. Then after awhile they put in platforms right down each side. And we slept on the platforms. Years later, they got those old iron British beds. But they were just iron; all iron."

"We made mattresses out of these rice bags; you'd take and fill them with straw and sew the two together. You had one blanket, they were made out of straw or something."

"And the mosquitos were bad there. That's where you got the malaria," Schofield said.

Although the Japanese kept their guards outside of the huts, the prisoners kept their own guard on duty inside the hut, all night long.

"We had to guard all night ourselves. We had a man on every hour all night. The Japs would come around every once in a while and when diphtheria and dysentery struck at the same time. At first they had no syrum for the diphtheria so we just died. The only thing we used to do, we used to go around with a bucket of warm water and give them a drink; that's all you could do."

"Now at this same time we got the dry ber-i-ber-i. You'd just think your feet were in a fire all the time. Malnutrition; everybody was going down hill."

"Then I got diphtheria. The way it was, was they put you in detention and they swabbed you and if you were a carrier they put you in detention in this place, you know, wired off. So I was in there for six weeks and then they swabbed us again and let us out. I was only out one day and I got diphtheria."

"My throat got awful sore, so I just went up to the doctor's place and they swabbed me again, and the doctor said 'yeah, you got diphtheria'. They had syrum then. I think they got the syrum off the Chinese. I don't think they got it off the Japs at all. Anyway, they had the syrum so I was alright."

"I was sent to the Jubilee building. That's where they

"After we got out of there, they were shipping all the men to work in the ship yards and salt mines. I was never well enough to go and I was just as pleased because I didn't want to go. I wanted to stay where I was. At this time we were so bad, about 10 of us used to get a sugar-cured fish every day to try and keep us alive."

"When the 14 (men) were dying a day when the diphtheria was bad, they were put in boxes and taken down to the cemetery. The Chinese would dig up the boxes and throw the bodies out on the ground. So they'd (Japanese) just take them down in a box and put them in the ground and then bring the boxes all back to the camp. Then the next batch they'd put them all in the boxes and take them down."

"It got so bad there, they used to play the Last Post when they were taking the coffins out, but they had to stop that because it was driving some of the men nuts."

"I would say maybe I weighed 60 pounds. Just bone. You were just bone and skin over it. That's all you were. We had hundreds of

"They stewed them up and it was something. You know, it was something. Rice, you take that rice, course that's not our kind of rice, it's what they call unpolished rice. These old Portuguese cooked it. They had a great big fireplace and an iron dish and they'd fill that full of water. They'd get the fire going good and boil that. Then they'd throw the rice in. Then they put rice bags all over top of the thing (iron pan) and then they'd pull the fire out and then they'd let that cook till it was perfectly dry."

"And we used to get extra sometimes, they give each hut a turn. This rice would kind of burn on the bottom of that thing and it would be like big sheets of that rice and huts took turns at getting it. Yeah, that was good stuff."

"But another thing that was bad in there, there was nothing to smoke."

"They got these Japanese cigarettes, and fellows would trade their rice, mind you, for half a cigarette. And they'd have nothing to eat. Isn't that awful? But that's the way it went. There's nothing you could do about it."

"I was lucky I was 30 when I joined the army. All the young and all the old died. I just figure that I was just at the right age. I was right in between. Maybe we could go better without food or something, eh?"

All during the time Schofield was held prisoner in Hong Kong, the Japanese would not let mail through or even the Red Cross rations to help the prisoners remain strong. When the mail finally did start filtering through, Schofield received one letter from Wilberforce before the war ended.

"At the camp, I always thought about getting home. At nights we used to sit out on the hut guard for an hour. You used to have to sit out on a chair at the end of the hut, and I used to see the moon. I'd look at the moon and wonder what they were doing at home and all that kind of thing, and wonder whether we'd ever get out. We never expected to get out, you know."

"They told us, you know, they were going to shoot every prisoner before the Americans could land."

Schofield thought it was about 1944 when the parcels started arriving from Canada for the prisoners.

"In '44 a lot of the other fellows got parcels from home but I never got anything. The funny part was, me and a fellow by the name of Sittle, he came from down New Brunswick, we chummed together and, you know, everything we could scrounge we would split it up. And he got this great big parcel from home and there was another fellow there, Sergeant Johnson, he was from his home town, and he put up such a crying and all that, that this fellow that was with me, he went with him and I lost half the parcel."

Schofield laughs at an event that must have been horribly depressing at the time.

"In 1945, we got a Red Cross parcel between two men. There was a little bit of butter, and a little bit of sugar, little bit of tea and that kind of stuff in it. So that was a help too."

"What saved all us prisoners was that atomic bomb. The way it turned out, the bombs stopped the war and the British and Canadian troops didn't come in until the war was over. The minute the war was over, all the Japanese left the camp. They just left, the whole works. They were all rounded up when the British troops landed."

"The first good meal we got was on the Prince Robert. Then we went on the British battleships. That was the trouble, we went there and could hardly eat anything, you know, our stomachs had gotten so small in the meantime."

When the Japanese surrendered to the Allies, food was dropped into the camp for the prisoners to eat until the troops could arrive.

"We had a real old field day, I'll tell you. We were just cooking right and left. Making tea; you see we'd had no tea."

"Then this boat took us to Manila in the Philippines to an American camp there. We stayed there for a month or so

NOTICE TO ALLIED PRISONERS OF WAR AND CIVILIAN INTERNEES

The Japanese Government has accepted the Allied peace terms set forth in the Potsdam Declaration. Final negotiations are being concluded.

An official representative is on his way for humanitarian purposes and liaison with this headquarters. He will be an initial, pre-Allied occupation representative in the interest of welfare needs and general conditions in the area or camp to which he is sent.

He will coordinate with the Red Cross and Japanese Military and Government, all plans to assure the security of the personnel concerned, to take emergency action to properly house, feed, clothe and furnish medical assistance to such personnel, and to assist in maintaining order in camps awaiting occupational forces.

He will not have authority to act for the Allied Forces in the rendering of any decisions, military, civil or otherwise. Until such time as allied occupational forces arrive to accept the surrender of Japanese military forces, those military forces are responsible for all such control and decisions in conformity with the terms of surrender and the dictates of the Supreme Allied Command.

and they outfitted us and everything."

The men then travelled to Esquimaux, a naval base in British Columbia where medical check-ups were done. Then they were brought to Toronto.

Schofield returned home to Wilberforce but his sufferings would remain for many years.

"For the next two or three years, I was back and forth to the hospitals in Toronto. My nerves were awful bad; shot. They treated us with insulin shock treatment."

"After that I went to Kingston and I was there for about six months. Same thing, I got the insulin shock treatment again there. My nerves were so bad, you know, I'd walk, oh from here out to the road there, and I'd get so bad I'd have to sit down. And I thought all the time it was my bad heart. You know, I thought it was my heart. It was my nerves. They'd just tighten and tighten until you couldn't walk."

Finally, Schofield said, the insulin treatments were helping to cure his nervous condition created in the prisoner of war camps.

And then in about 1950 he got reacquainted with his wife Winnie and they were married and have lived in Wilberforce. But the horrors of the camp will never leave him.

"I always dream, well at first, my God, I had these awful dreams you know, scream and holler and everything, but then after that I always dream I'm back in Hong Kong. And I tell the fellows, 'well I was here before. This is the second time for me'. I tell them 'I was a prisoner here before'."

Part of Reg Schofield probably will always be in that disgustingly dirty and disease ridden prisoner of war camp in Hong Kong.

Invasion Yen, useless after Japanese surrender inside the race track was finished the prisoners were shipped back to the mainland at Sham Shui Po.

"It was an army camp, in the first place. They were cement, all except for the roof. The walls were cement, the floor was cement. It would get so hot there in the daytime, the temperature would be around 105 (degrees Fahrenheit). The humidity on the walls. The water would just run down those walls and the floors were uneven so there'd be puddles all over the floors."

"There were rows and rows of them. One hut would be about oh, 20 foot wide by 100 foot long. They were army barracks, you know, for the British before this."

you'd have to account for all those men. Of course one might be out at the toilet, with dysentery, you see, and you'd have to account for him or boy, you were in trouble."

"Another thing, we didn't understand what they were saying. That was one of the big troubles there, you know. We were trying to tell them something and they didn't know what we were saying, and we didn't know what they were saying."

"Then things got real bad, sent them. Everybody was going down hill, they were all starving to death."

"While we were there, there was all these big bathrooms, with no hot water, all cold, ice water. We'd fill them full of water and then 10 or 12 of us would sit around the tub with our feet in the water (to relieve the burning sensation from the dry ber-i-ber-i). We did that for months. After awhile, our feet went numb. Then we were alright."

things you know but I don't want to go into all that. I had malaria too."

"I was in such bad shape. They called for so many men for the working party and if you had to take them on a stretcher, you took them anyway. You took that many men. So, the doctors got me working in the garden in the camp. And everything we grew went to the Japanese. The only thing we got was sweet potato tops. Of course that helped."

"They told us, you know, they were going to shoot every prisoner before the Americans could land."

Schofield thought it was about 1944 when the parcels started arriving from Canada for the prisoners.

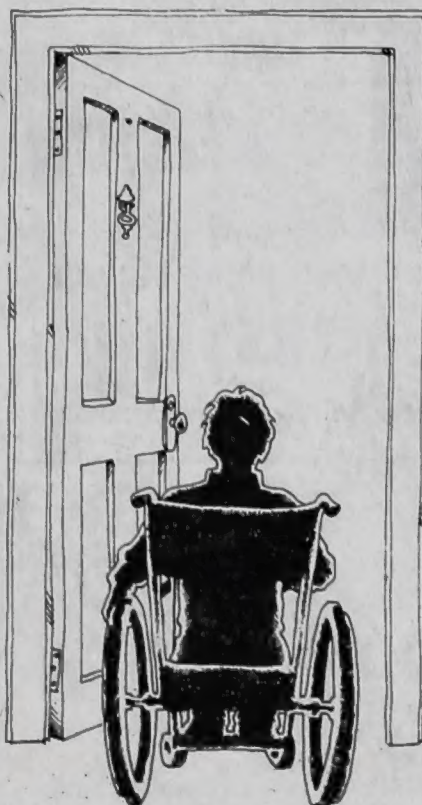

"In '44 a lot of the other fellows got parcels from home but I never got anything. The funny part was, me and a fellow by the name of Sittle, he came from down New Brunswick, we chummed to-

Tough new laws will deter trespassing.

How we're helping to protect you and your property.

For nearly 150 years Ontario has had a law making it an offence to enter property where entry is prohibited. But now new legislation—The Trespass to Property Act—has toughened up the law to protect your rights.

Trespassers can now be fined up to $1,000. In addition, they can be ordered to pay for damages they have caused.

An important part of the legislation designates premises where entry is prohibited without notice. These include your gardens, orchards, vineyards, land under cultivation, woodlots and fenced land.

Where notice must be given to prohibit entry, you may use red markings on gates, trees or fences. Yellow markings may be used to caution that only certain activities may be permissible. It is the responsibility of the visitor to find out what you permit.

LAND USED FOR RECREATION
In the past, there was a great deal of confusion regarding your responsibility to people you allow on your land.

Consequently many farmers and rural landholders would not allow recreational activities on their properties.

Now another new act—The Occupiers' Liability Act—reduces your responsibility. In a nutshell, the law assumes that those who take their recreation on most rural land without paying a fee will take care for their own safety.

A special system has been devised to allow you to easily indicate which activities you will allow on your property. A sign naming or graphically representing an activity (for example, hiking) indicates that the activity is permitted. The same kind of sign with an oblique stroke through it means that you prohibit the activity.

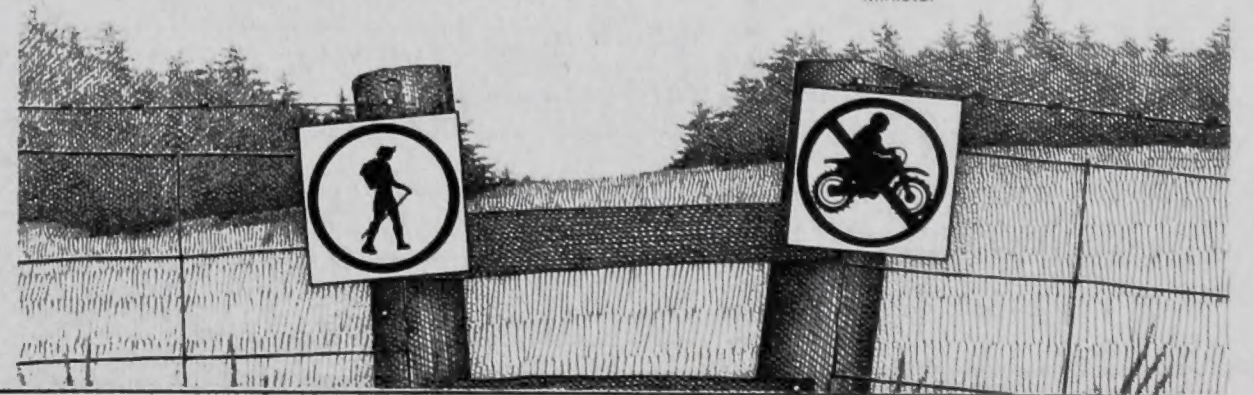

These new laws are part of a continuing program to streamline our legislation. By clarifying your rights, they afford you greater protection from trespass and also reduce your liability when you make land available for recreational purposes.

COUNTY ECHO FAMILY

Extendicare News

by Dr. W. O. Anderson

The deer hunt this year has had a very quiet prelude, so much so it is hard to believe we are in the midst of it. Most hunting here about is on crown lands, an expression that is difficult to understand. It is said that crown lands belong to the people of Ontario, no doubt some legal doddle to make the people sort of feel good. We, for instance, can say the politicians own it, and they will turn about and say we own it. If we own it we have never heard of anyone getting title without paying.

An editorial in the Echo recently on forest management made no mention of grooming. Fancy a field of wheat say, with much of the straw of yesteryear still there. It would not look good and not be good. In grooming forests one cannot think in terms of big harvesters, simply man power or horse power or midget tractors. Our civilization must get down to basics and leave the family car in the garage and not be continual using precious fuel. A few editorials written on this premise may get people to think.

One of the amazing features of the recent budget, the energy part in it that gives no help to those Canadians that use home heating oil, but the subsidy on motor fuel is still intact that gives border Americans and foreign airlines low cost fuel.

Tuesday's bingo game was a great success with Ray Smith doing the calling and doing a good job. Greta Kellett was the lone helper again, Pat Burk was trouble shooter. One lady won seven prizes making her quite happy.

Margaret Milne of Eagle Lake was recently awarded the Silver Medal for Grade IX (nine) organ by the Royal Conservatory of Music. Mrs. Milne received the highest mark for this examination in Ontario.

She has been studying organ with Sydney Birrell at St. John's Anglican Church in Peterborough for the last two years.

Presently, she plays for services at the Eagle Lake Community Church. She also plays as assistant to Bill Gliddon at St. George's Anglican Church in Haliburton.

Our plants are much better now than at the same time last year. A crown of thorns plants is thriving nicely, but last week had a beginning infestation with mealy bugs. That is under control. Fungus has infested the begonias and it is difficult to say if we can eliminate this pest or not. Another of the cuttings left by the Royal Botanical gardens is a lovely artillery plant standing up as straight as a soldier and as healthy appearing as can be.

June Devolin led us in our Bible study Wednesday morning and was accompanied by a friend, Nada Vaughan. The text was from John 14 wherein God assures us that whatever we ask in his or in the name of his son Jesus, it will be given to us. This is much the same as with anything, if we do not ask we do not get.

There was an interesting 'phone in' at 1:00 o'clock asking if labour unions had too much power in Canada. One of the labour bosses was host. One of the first responses coming was from a very articulate, outspoken lady, knowledgeable from her work among the underprivileged. She thundered an emphatic 'yes' quoting 1. Labour unions are the sole cause of inflation. 2. Labour unions are the cause of unemployment. 3. They are the sole cause of strikes. 4. They are the sole cause of high interest rates. 5. They get much gravy for much less work. 6. Union members at large are chisellers (the dictionary does not give this annotation) in that like anyone will buy offshore garments, or cars of foreign make (not made by Canadian labor) if they can get them cheaper. The moderator thanked her for her point of view, the host claimed she was all wrong. Programs like this should help solve our economy problems.

Thursday afternoon was intensive woodwork making magazine holders, and it is remarkable how quickly a subscription will fill them. Up to now the Happy Gang must have made 30 or more of these. Ray Smith, Lila Simmons, Allen Macklin and Harold McKelvey are eager learners of this craft in the tutelage of Charlie Stormer, and supervised by Pat Burk.

The Happy Gang are indebted to Kay (Kathleen) Barnes, for a nice cheque to us in appreciation of the care given to her mother Edith Hartle and her sister Alice Hartle, both of whom are residents. It is really the staff of Extendicare that gives the care.

It is too late now for the Gang to express their preference for any candidates in this coming poll but we hope that those municipal officials who helped to get that marvellous 'face lift' for the village this summer get the credit they deserve. The village did not go into any more debt.

Friday morning devotional period was led by Lieut. Ron Mailman of the Haliburton Salvation Army accompanied by officer Amelia Sibley and bringing along his indispensable guitar. The lieutenant is much of an enthusiast in his service to God and his son Jesus. His message was based on John's gospel, ch. 14 with that all familiar quotation, "I am the way, the truth and the light". For good measure he gave us a spiritual solo accompanying himself on his guitar. Thanks for the music and your message.

Friday after movie was of the oil countries around the Persian Gulf commonly referred to as 'The Gulf', and the region it seems where the garden of Eden was, and the basis of 'Temptation Day' one of Islam's holiest and why they practice polygamy. None of this has been preempted by the oil glut they are presently enjoying. The efflorescence of oil now in the billions of whatever unit you may choose is the most stupendous ever. We must marvel what wondrous changes modern technology has brought to the Gulf emirates and without stint because of the abundance of ready cash from oil. It is said that Bell Canada for instance is in good prospects of gross-ing $3 billion. How much net, or the bottom line remains to be seen.

The hunt is on for the fast buck, and the choice hunting is a preference of those townships bordering on Algonquin Provincial Park of which the County of Haliburton has a good share, and really yields a good annual take. A big problem is getting the game home, but no doubt the exhilaration of getting it automatically takes care of that. It is no chore at all.

Social planning council meets

Groups try to hire speech therapist

At a meeting of the Haliburton County Social Planning Council October 25, it was decided that a sub-committee of the Social Planning Council would be formed in November, after the municipal elections, to prepare and present another brief of county and municipal councils on consolidation of welfare services.

Susan Clements reported that the Home Care Program of Haliburton, Kawartha Pine Ridge Health Unit, the Haliburton County Board of Education, and the Haliburton District Association for the Mentally Retarded are combining their resources in an effort to employ a speech therapist for Haliburton and Victoria Counties.

Rosemary Kenney reported on the day care survey sponsored by the Social Planning Council, and funded by Employment and Immigration under the 1980 Summer Youth Program. A questionnaire was distributed to parents in Haliburton County who had pre-school age children. The survey reflected a need for seventy spaces on a full-time basis, with the greatest need located in the Village of Haliburton.

Rosemary has not received reaction from the ministry to the survey, but she has been informed that Haliburton is on the list for possible funding for next year. The county was divided into three main areas for the purpose of the survey: Haliburton, Wilberforce, and Minden. Establishment of a day care centre in each area was suggested and possible locations and costs were examined. In addition, a list of individuals interested in supplying private home day care was compiled. Rosemary did not see any developments on a centre being made until September 1981.

Catherine Miller and Phillippa Wilmer commented that large day care centres are often sterile, lacking in stimulation, and less favoured by the ministry.

Major Lewis reported on the work of the Children's Services Steering Committee, which is composed of service providers, service users, and representatives from local government. At this point, the committee is waiting for ministry approval for funds for another year. The committee is asking for $30,000, and is presently interviewing for a new coordinator. It is hoped that a local children's services committee will be established in Haliburton, consisting of members from the police force, education, municipal council, and service providers. It is planned that all children's services will be administered through such a local committee.

Blanche Turner indicated that the "Hard to Serve Committee", a sub-committee of the Children's Services Steering Committee, is appearing to directors of various agencies to modify their mandate in order to accommodate children whose needs are presently not being met.

The theme of the next meeting, which will take place in the council chambers in the Dysart Municipal Building at 9:30 a.m. to 12:00 noon, November 27, will be alcoholism. There will be speakers from A.A., Alanon, and a personnel officer from a Victoria County based company.

to mention. She had to iron two weeks supply of clean shirts for me. Had to buy presents for the boys. First presents were useless and I had to take them back, as usual, and get the refund.

Should she wear a trench-coat with sweater under, or winter coat with boots? If it were piercing cold in the true north, she'd freeze in a trench-coat. If it happened to be Indian Summer, she'd swelter in a winter coat.

And on, and on, and on. She bought three months supply of meat and it's all in the freezer, so I won't starve. I usually dine on a couple of eggs or some sausage, or beans, when she's away.

I know, sincerely, that she expects to come home and find the house burned to the ground, and me either in jail or the mental health centre, as we euphemistically call the loony bin nowadays.

Kinmount Korner

by Millie Moss

I hope all is well at your house!

Last Sunday, Helen and Alex Graham, Mary L. and John Pyke, all of Norland, Amy, Stephen, Helen and Heather Coker, Bruce, Sandy and Michael Card, all of the Utterson and Huntsville area, Bill and I, travelled to the home of our sister Marie, at Jackson's Point, for the day. Already there, were Robert and Johanna Card, Christine Bailey and her twins, Tanya and Louise, Janet and Eugene Rafuse, Philip Card, Karen Card and of course, Marie's good husband, Bill Card. We had a very nice day, a buffet dinner and the other ten relatives who couldn't make it missed out on a good old visit. Marie will be going into hospital soon and this was kind of a pre-Xmas get-together. Amy Coker came back to Norland to stay with mom for a few days while husband Larry is at his hunting camp.

What kind of "person" would rub excrement into the walls, window, doorknob and loading dock of a government building or for that matter any building? That's the mess we faced on Monday morning and I know the kind of person I called you. If that's the only thing you're learning at home and at school these days then God help us all!

If you have lost a brown leather glove (ladies) with a diamond cut trim at the wrist, you may pick up same at Kinmount P.O.

Guests at the home of Joan and Ken Hyams in the past few weeks were very special friends Eleanor and Stan Jones of Toronto and Ivy and Walter Moore of Orr Lake. Our very busy neighbours were in Toronto, Kitchener and Mitchell, Ontario this week.

There are lots of new cars to be seen around our town, recently, with proud owners, the Albert Cregos, the Bill Menards and the Ken Hyams to name but a few.

The lucky jackpot winner of $270.00 at Kirkfield Lions bingo, last Tuesday evening was Mrs. Betty Love of Kirkfield.

It's nice to see Gertie Crichton out and around again.

Take it easy Ruth Menard, I hear you're not feeling too well again, as of Tuesday night.

Euchre results at St. James Hall this past week were: men's high: Dave McNamara, men's low: Claude Crego, ladies' high: Nora Swinson, ladies' low: Norma Hamilton and most lone hands: Ed Williams.

Helmut and Deb Bretschneider of RR1, Fenelon Falls, are field managers in a new business and have been busy introducing this young and dynamic company from Highpoint, North Carolina, with its Canadian office in Bowmanville, to our area, after only six years in the U.S. and one year in Canada. The company has a 3A-2 rating with Dunn and Bradstreet and is the fastest growing marketing company in the world today. Former Amway Diamond Directs have started a more profitable business and are looking for former Amway distributors who would really like to double their incomes. All inquiries would be kept strictly confidential and for further information you could call 705-887-2456 after 6 p.m.

Paul Wootton, who was park superintendent at Balsam Lake Provincial Park up until last year and is now residing in Ottawa with his wife and family was kind enough to send a card to Ida and Clyde Pardy recently, announcing the birth of 6 lb. 9 oz. daughter, Dawn Marie, on Friday, October 17. Congratulations to the happy family.

Ida and Clyde Pardy spent time in Toronto, Brampton and Aurora this week. Clyde saw his brother who is now 30 but was only 16 when he left Newfoundland so there was lots to be said at that meeting and then on Wednesday evening they visited with Mary L. and John Pyke in Norland.

Another Cameo Tube Paint Party will be held at the home of V. Denelco on Highway 503 at Furnace Falls on Wednesday, November 26 at 2 p.m. All are welcome!

"Sis" Gillis has a bad cold this week. Get well soon "Sis".

Mr. and Mrs. Allpress of Toronto and Bertha Stata of Kinmount enjoyed dinner with Ruby Schell at her home in Kinmount this past week. Maggie Kylie is currently spending a week at her son's home near Toronto thence to the home of her daughter, Josephine, at Sault Ste. Marie. Come back rested, Maggie.

We'll folks I just have to tell you about the very interesting morning I had on Friday. I visited with Vi Cook at Irondale for a short while and saw her beautiful plants of which she has many and all the projects she has going, quilts, wall hangers, mats, you name it, Bill and I picked up a load of wood while there. Vi still has lots of the wood there and would like to see it all gone. It's softwood and she'll sell it for $15. per cord.

Bill and I headed back towards Kinmount where I stopped in at Daniel and Sons Signs. It's right on 503 hwy. about a mile east of Kinmount. We met Mr. Daniel on his way out and at his invitation went inside and met the staff who were very obliging in showing me around and explaining the works. They take sheets of plywood (4 X 8) and cut them to size on a cutting machine. Holes are then drilled and following that procedure the individual pieces are sanded and edges are decoratively cut and then they are scorched on a metal table with a mixture of oxygen and propane gas. Popping follows which is a white liquid that brings up the grain in the wood and also acts as a sealer. It's then set to dry, varnished and left to dry again. Then screening follows. The wood is set under the screen which has the printing, pictures etc. in it, ink is drawn across the inside on the words in the screen and should go through to the wood. It is set to dry again which takes a few hours, is taken off the racks and stocked for shipment to all parts of Canada. At the moment they are open for all marketing and trying to get going overseas. While there I met Flo Jopling who does all the art work, bookkeeping and is, in general, "girl Friday". Donna Shaw, who is supervisor of the plant and was so kind in explaining the works to me, Shawn Silver, who showed me how to burn the wood and with his bare hands yet, Loreen Swinson, Georgina Swinson, Norm Shorter who all do a great job in the shop and are full time workers.

Gertie Spencer is a part time employee and I found these people to be very cooperative and genial. This business was started almost three years ago and gave these local folk their jobs and more are hired in the summer time. It's also a year round going concern. Gordon Daniels is the owner and he transferred his Scarborough business to Kinmount which is our gain. I saw the most beautiful spoon racks which are cut in the shape of all our provinces and other countries and I can't think of a more novel way to hang spoons, collected from other places than to see them hanging on a map type rack. There are also spoon racks in the shape of a maple leaf. A beautiful cribbage table caught my eye and there were a number of them boxed and ready for shipment. Then there are lovely coat hangers some with the inscription, "hang your coat here guys", another one says, "welcome a friends, ang em etc". That one has to have come from Flo, who is the Newfoundland in the group.

Another I liked says "hang it, don't throw it". There are kiddies' stools, much like the old-fashioned milk stool with cute verses on the seat. The wall has a lot of small plaques all with quaint and colorful phrases. Then, of course, there's name plates to be hung outside one's home. In the office there are drawings on the wall which are to be used on future items. They are hoping to expand the business and building in the near future and I for one wish them all the best. Though it's a wholesale manufacturing plant you would be most welcome to come in and buy retail, any time. Believe me, you could pick up a lot of your Xmas gift items right near home. One little comment, Mr. Daniels: put your own sign out front! Thank you for the nice welcome I received.

Mary L. Pyke of Norland was a guest of Sis and Jim Gillis, Galloway Road, Friday afternoon and later came to our house. Take care of yourselves and have a good day. 488-2399.

Two more Monday night bingos have passed without a lucky winner for the over $130 snowball. The Recreation Committee has voted to allow the bingo to be held upstairs in the dance hall. This means players can enjoy their evenings in more comfortable surroundings, with one proviso -- overshoes and wet boots must be removed, so that no damage will be done to the beautiful dance floor, which entails a great deal of "housekeeping". It should be mentioned that both Mrs. Peggy Whitney and Mr. Ray Jenkins have "battled" for a very long time to gain this "upstairs" privilege. Sincere thanks to both. We shall be saying "good-bye" to both Peggy and Ray on Monday, December 8, and welcoming Linda Morrison and Valerie Chumbley, so mark this date on your calendar, as it will also be a Xmas special.

Last Monday, November 3, Mrs. Viola Cook, a very new grandmother, won the "pickle jar" game, $14. Congratulations on both counts!

Keep Fit Classes - It is hoped Mrs. Kim Stamp can be persuaded to attend the Dance Callisthenics program at Sir Sandford Fleming and so armed with firsthand "know-how", can instruct both young and not so young on how to attain a "body beautiful"! A day and time will be arranged, hopefully to suit everyone.

A reminder that the monthly country and western dance is fast approaching November 15, music by Wildwood from Lindsay.

Tickets are now on sale for the New Year's Dance -- Call Wes or Mary Jackson at 754-2484. Don't delay.

The pot luck lunch sponsored by seniors, will be held November 18, as mentioned in a previous column. This is a reminder to everyone to make a concerted effort to attend, thus showing appreciation to Mrs. E. Stata for the hard work involved in organizing this luncheon.

The Thursday Bus Service - It seems there has been misunderstanding regarding this service. If you wish to use the bus, it is necessary to call one of the following ladies in your area and let them know. Eagle Lake - Emily Schroeder 754-2718; West Guilford - Joy Fielding 754-2178; Maple Lake Area - Ev Stata 754-2204.

Hockey News - Bernie Nichols, a local boy, plays for Kingston Canadians, and last night scored 3 points, beating Peterborough 4-1.

Mrs. Jane Whitefield of Cobourg passed away peacefully on November 1. She was the mother of Isaac Whitefield, grandmother of Wayne and great grandmother of Kathy and Phillip of Whitefield. Mrs. Whitefield was in her 88th year and in good health until the time of her death. Her husband, Isaac, died in 1962. Mrs. Whitefield is survived by two daughters, seven sons, 23 grandchildren and 17 great grandchildren. Her seven sons served as pall bearers.

The ACW members of St. Margaret's church were joined by members of the church at their monthly meeting. A large quilt was completed and the extra help with this project was very much appreciated. Another quilt was also tied. Dorcas member Sylvia Cameron showed articles accumulated for the bales. With these items were some colourful knitted socks and mittens worked by our faithful members Ethel Mitchell and Evelyn Johnson.

A rummage sale is scheduled for Friday night from 7 to 8:30. This will be held in the church basement and there is a plentiful supply of good used clothing on hand. November 14 is the date.

The ice is ready and waiting for action in the arena. On Sunday afternoon a free skating period was provided to give skaters a chance to try out their skates.

The figure skating club gets underway on Saturday, November 15. Registration takes place and classes will be formed starting at 9:30 and continuing until 11:30 a.m. The teacher this year is Kim Comrie who is from Cardiff and is well known in this area.

The figure skating club annual Christmas bazaar takes place in the Memorial Centre on November 29 at 1 p.m.

The Legionnaires are very busy these days with a full schedule of activities. A turkey roll held in the Legion Hall on Wednesday night drew a large crowd, many of them hunters, and this made for a successful evening. Saturday morning saw members out in full force for the poppy drive. Very much appreciated was the help given by members of the Girl Guides and the Brownies.

On Sunday morning members of Branch 624 gathered at Tory Hill for the annual church parade in memory of fallen comrades. The United Church was filled and Mr. Morris Bradley delivered an inspiring sermon. Past president, Walter Klapow, read from the scriptures. With Mrs. Brook at the organ the choir added their lovely voices to the service. The dinner held by members of the United Church in Highland Grove was a complete success. Only memories of past excellent dinners could have brought out such a tremendous crowd of people. The parking lot was filled as were both sides of the road along the highway, a fitting tribute to the accomplishments of the members of the

The basement of St. Anthony's Catholic Church was crowded when the doors opened to the public last Saturday afternoon. The annual Christmas bazaar was held in hopes of aiding the new church building fund.

Look into the Klondike. You will find a good airtight woodburning stove that could be worth its weight in gold. One that is solidly built, burns wood efficiently and generates more than enough heat to keep you warm. One that has the features you would expect to find in a modern airtight stove like pyro-ceramic windows that release more heat than steel.

Last Saturday's Toronto Star had a number of letters in it regarding the Santa Claus Parade being too early, and you know I agree with those letters. Hallowe'en was just a day or so before the parade. That does seem to be crowding events too close together does it not? We adults know Christmas is fast coming but it seems a long time for kiddies, after seeing the parade, to wait for Christmas. I asked one little girl if she had watched it and she nodded her head yes then looked at me and said "But that wasn't the real Santa, that was one of his helpers." Out of the mouths of babes!

Myrtle Carpenter of Phelpsston visited with her sister Cora Hewitt last week. A number of town people have already headed south for the winter and more are going each week. I sure hope they all have a nice winter.

Wintario toque winners last week were - Edna Taylor at Mac's Country Mart; John Francis at Brown Owl; John Rockery at Mike's Milk; Don Sinclair at Stedmans and Len Lonsberry at the drug store.

Gerald Coulter of Toronto spent the weekend with his parents Mr. and Mrs. Angus Coulter.

Have your ingredients yet for your Christmas cake? If you haven't try the Health Food Store. Their chopped fruit, peel and glazed cherries are really fresh and not so expensive on the whole.

A welcome to Mr. and Mrs. George Johnson and Earl who have moved into the Rod Ward house in the village.

The Women's Institute meeting will be at the St. Paul's Parish Hall on Wednesday, November 19 starting at 2 p.m. All ladies welcome.

Dr. and Mrs. Lodenquai entertained the nurses of the village one evening last week. November 22 is Mrs. Edith Welch's birthday and it is hoped that friends and relatives will call to see her that day and help make her birthday a happy one. I know she would appreciate cards and good wishes.

Mini card party winners last Thursday were: cribbage - Dora Dawson; Ethel Leigh, Euchre - Lone hands, Marg MacFee; Harry MacMinn, Myrtle Carpenter.

We are pleased to note young David Ackersblade is able to get around again after having an accident to his knee.

Mrs. Arnold Coulter spent last week in Downsview with the Ray Rivers and one day she and Adele went to see Mrs. Amy Milligan who had the misfortune to break her hip and is hospitalized in Bowmanville hospital.

"Quick Cranberry Relish" - 2 1/2 cups unpeeled chopped red apples; 1 lemon (seeds removed) ground or chopped fine; 2 (1 lb.) cans whole cranberry sauce. Combine all ingredients. Blend thoroughly and store overnight in covered container for flavours to be well blended. Yields 5 cups. This keeps in the refrigerator for ages or can be frozen.

A cactus slip I brought home from Vancouver last year has flowered and when I asked a friend what colour she thought it was the reply was why B.C. salmon of course!

Hyland Crest Auxiliary are holding their Christmas tea and bazaar at the Hyland Crest Home on November 19, 2 p.m. to 4 p.m. No admission charge.

Mrs. Nell Anderson is visiting her daughter Mrs. Wren Hughes in Harcourt.

The U.C.W. 10th anniversary Christmas luncheon, bazaar and bake sale will be held at Minden United Church Hall from 11:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. on Friday, November 21.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Brownridge of Scarborough spent the weekend at their cottage.

Mrs. Marion Lodenquai spent the weekend in Toronto.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Chamberlain of Scarborough visited with Mr. and Mrs. Bill Moore last week.

The St. Paul's A.C.W. are planning a chili luncheon, Christmas bazaar and bake sale for November 28.

The November meeting of the United Church Women was held at the church hall on November 5. Mrs. R. Sedgwick chaired the meeting. Dr. A. Jamieson gave a very thought-provoking address on being born again, telling the story of Nicodemus in the first person. It was decided to revert back to two groups in 1981 and hold general meetings every two months but group meetings every month. Dr. Jamieson reported for the nominating committee and the list of officers are as follows. President - Mrs. Annie Kernohan; 2nd vice president Mrs. Lillian Mann; secretary Mrs. Beatrice Taylor; treasurer - Mrs. Janet Heffer. Most of the committee chairpersons remained the same.

As this is the 10th anniversary of the Christmas luncheon, special plans were made for November 21. Church calendars are now for sale. The next meeting will be December 3 at 7:30 p.m. Adios and take care now.

Coboconk News

by Shiela Lake

Congratulations to Marjorie and Adrian Lee who celebrate their 40th wedding anniversary on Saturday, November 15. The celebration takes place at the Coboconk Legion hall from 8 p.m. to 1 a.m. on November 15 so drop by and partake of the festivities and dance etc.

Jack Baker remains in Ross Memorial Hospital and I'm sure Jack would appreciate being remembered by his many friends.

Carl Powell underwent open heart surgery in Toronto last week and is a patient in Western Hospital, Toronto. We wish Carl get well greetings and trust he makes a fast recovery.

Also in hospital is Diane Garelli who underwent surgery in Ross Memorial Hospital last week. Hurry and get well, Diane!

Mrs. Cora Lake, Mrs. Frances Nesbitt and I journeyed to Minden on Thursday evening and saw the film "Deceived", at the Allsaw church. The film dealt with the Jim Jones cult and ex-members of his commune told how they joined the Jones family. They were well educated people who came under Jones spell. Makes one wonder really why one could be so deceived and if you have a chance to see the film it is very enlightening.

Members of the local Legion branch were selling their poppies this weekend. War seems so far away when we hear of the fighting in Iraq and Iran but most of us have lost a cousin, uncle, father or close relatives in either of the past wars so we cannot become complacent and think we are safe in this great country. Let us support the folk who do remember and care about families who lost a loved one who fought for our country.

Mr. Garnet Peel was buried at Bexley cemetery on Thursday. Mr. Peel lived on the Argyle highway just south of Bolsover but had many friends and relatives in our area.

We enjoyed a short visit with Catherine and Rod Harrison at Queensville on Tuesday evening.

The Souter's have left for warmer climates and the variety store is under the capable management of Debbie Angiers and staff.

The deer hunters are not as lucky this year sometimes. I have not seen any deer on cars all this year.

Mrs. Cora Lake was very delighted and surprised on Monday evening, when the Coboconk L.O.B.A. presented her with her 50 year pin. Mrs. Lake has been a faithful

Gooderham News

Dalyn Pickens Jr. has been home visiting his parents Mr. and Mrs. Dalyn Pickens Sr., for the past few weeks before moving to South Africa. Dal plans to live in Johannesburg and will be visiting with several friends there for a few weeks. He flew to Amsterdam from Toronto on November 3 and will be staying there for two days before flying on to Johannesburg.

Several local people will be appearing in the Highlands Little Theatre production of Agatha Christie's "A Murder Is Announced". Mrs. Faye Silver and Miss Lynn Graham will both be appearing in the play which is being directed by Mr. Mike Collins. It is hoped that there will be a fine turnout from the Gooderham area to see this play which is scheduled for November 21 and 22 at Haliburton Highlands Secondary School.

Rev. Armstrong conducted church services in the United Church a week ago, since the regular minister, Mr. Maurice Bradley, was preaching at the anniversary of the Oakwood United Church. Rev. Armstrong was formerly the minister of Eskine Presbyterian Church in Hamilton, having now retired but spending the summer months at his cottage on Wolf Lake.

Mrs. Mae Pickens and her daughter, Vaneita, have returned after visiting Mr. and Mrs. Murray Pickens and two daughters in B.C. They arrived at Toronto airport in time to give them ten minutes to say goodbye to Dalyn before he had to take his departure on his flight to South Africa.

We hear reports that some local hunters have been lucky in bagging a deer.

Mrs. Grace Green of Lindsay spent a few days of the hunting season with her niece, Mrs. Elda Hunter, and also visited her sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McCall.

Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Hunter and Mary Hadley attended the Haliburton County Home Support System workshop at PineStone Inn. The theme was "Friendly Visiting" - an important aspect of senior service - a program with "people helping people". Mrs. Phillipa Wilmer, social worker, lectured on the requirements of a volunteer, aided with a film. Some salient points were demonstrated by role-playing. Three different interviews showed how volunteers could help those who are confined and unable to participate in community activities or keep in touch with current events because of their disability. Following a luncheon, Rev. Trevor Denny, Anglican Church Rector, spoke on the "do's" and "don'ts" of friendly visiting, illustrating with happenings in his personal experiences. His talk was informative and very practical.

FUELWOOD SALE

Tenders will be received by the Ministry of Natural Resources up to and including Wednesday, November 26, 1980 for 30 cords of fuelwood.

The wood is mainly hard maple and beech, in log length, located at the Leslie M. Frost Natural Resources Centre's sawmill near Dorset. Further particulars may be obtained from the Leslie M. Frost Centre, Dorset, Ontario, or from the Ministry of Natural Resources, Minden, Ontario, K0M 2K0.

The Highest Or Any Tender Will Not Necessarily Be Accepted.

Soyers association holds meeting

Almost 30 members attended the fall meeting of the Soyer's Lake Ratepayers' Association Incorporated at Lakeview Lodge Sunday, October 12, under the chairmanship of Lew McCorriston, president.

Topics discussed covered a wide range. Particular interest was in the proposed development of the Hislop property by Couchiching Real Estate. While realizing the useful role played by developers, concern was expressed about the minimum area of cottage lots and length of frontage. Accordingly the association agreed to continue to advocate amendment to the zoning by-law covering all new development, to establish a new lot frontage requirement on Soyer's Lake of 200 feet and a minimum lot area of one acre, and passed a motion to that effect.

A second motion was passed with respect to the Hislop property. A committee will be established by the association with discretion to negotiate with the owners of the property and make representations before the Ontario Municipal Board regarding the topographical and other features of the property, recommending that no lot should be permitted with a frontage of less than 150 feet and an area of approximately one-half acre. It appeared that some of the broad recommendations by the Department of the Environment concerning the maximum number of cottages on Soyer's Lake were difficult to reconcile with local government requirements.

Soyer's Lake has a comparatively large periphery compared with its surface area: its area is 813 acres and its periphery 10 1/2 miles, whereas a circular lake covering 813 acres would have a periphery of only 4 miles.

On the question of water pollution and control, and acid rain, it was reported that Soyer's Lake was fortunate in having a natural rock formation which counteracted a low P.H. reading, so that there was no advantage to be gained from "liming".

On the social and athletic side, members will explore the possibility of establishing a tennis group, using the facilities at Lakeview Lodge. The regatta was enjoyed so much this year that several members felt it should be an annual event - preferably with more wind for next year's events!

The association has 12 directors, six of whom are elected each year for a two-year term. The following were elected for the ensuing two-year term: Bob Thompson, John Thorne, Carole Liddold, Burt Tait, Lew McCorriston, and Bruce Birrell.

Man injured in van accident

A Toronto man suffered minor injuries early Sunday morning when the van he was driving went out of control on Highway 35 north of Minden.

Roger Lobe, 40, was northbound at approximately 1 a.m. when he struck a number of guideposts on the east side of the road.

Linus Trainor, 36, of Markham.

Damage to his car was estimated at $2,500.

No charges have been laid in the incident.

A single vehicle accident near Gooderham Sunday morning resulted in an estimated $5000 damage to a pickup truck.

The vehicle, driven by Michael Billins, 25 of Toronto, was southbound on a private road when it went onto the west shoulder entered a swamp and rolled over into its roof.

Billins was not injured in the mishap.

Damage to the van he was driving was estimated at $5000. Damage to the guideposts was estimated at $350.

Lobe was taken to Minden hospital suffering minor injuries.

The Harcourt Community Centre was extensively damaged early Sunday morning when a car struck a parked vehicle and pushed into the building's concrete block wall.

The parked and unattended vehicle, owned by William Findlay of Haliburton, suffered an estimated $4000 damage, while damage to the centre was estimated at $5000.

Driver of the vehicle which struck the parked car was

Two youths charged with breakin

Two Minden area youths have been charged with break, enter and theft and possession of stolen property following a breakin at Mr. Foggs restaurant in Carnarvon in the early morning hours of November 2.

The business was entered by breaking a window and unlocking the rear door, causing an estimated $150 damage. Stolen was $441 in cash, of which $331 is still missing.

Charged are Gordon Burns 20, and Robert W. Mann, 17, both of RR2 Minden.

They are scheduled to appear in court Tuesday, November 18.

Charges of break, enter and theft have also been laid against two Haliburton area people following a breakin at a cottage on Grass Lake in the West Guilford area.

The cottage, owned by an individual identified only as Jubb by police, was entered November 5-6, and approximately $4 in property was stolen.

Charged were Martin D. Robichaud, 18, and Randolph S. Winn, 23, both of RR1

Haliburton.

Further investigation revealed that Robichaud had entered another cottage owned by John Tyson on two earlier occasions. Property stolen from Tyson's cottage was valued at $75.

Robichaud will face an additional two charges of break, enter and theft in connection with the incidents.

Both the accused were taken into custody pending a bail hearing in Lindsay Monday, November 10.

Davis tops Stanhope polls

Harry Davis topped the polls in Stanhope Township once again on Monday. In the race for councillor seats, Davis picked up 303 votes, 37 more than his nearest contender.

Incumbent Elvin Johnson was close behind with 266 votes to retain his chair at council.

One newcomer will be joining the council at its regular meetings, Dale Mac-Donald. He accumulated 252 votes, only seven ahead of candidate Ann Barker with 245 votes.

Penny Gough received 98 votes for councillor.

Previously, both reeve Jim Harrison and deputy-reeve Elgin Stouffer had been acclaimed to their offices along with school board trustees Dorothy Kinsman and Leroy Eager.

Orange member of these many years and is still active in the lodge.

Our first real taste of snow was on the ground Thursday morning. Wouldn't it be great to have another winter like last year, though I know snowmobile dealers, ski resorts, etc. would suffer. No matter the weather, it is unsatisfactory to some.

In Minden a new garage and showroom is taking shape on Ron Gambell's used car premises which will be a real asset to the area. Homestead Plumbing Warehouse's new showroom began to take on its final shape last week in none other than solid log construction as produced by "1867 Confederation Log Homes". Along with a similar design for the new library on the other side of town these attractive new buildings will add much to the character of Minden.

In Haliburton village Caudron's has now closed their doors after selling out their stock to Haliburton Pharmacy. Hopefully with the increased business now going to Haliburton Pharmacy this will not result in a net loss in jobs in town and we can look forward to welcoming some new business in the old Caudron location.

Charlie Tyler of Tyler's Appliances has a computer. It's a large unit with a varied range of functions and capabilities. Charlie is using it to handle his parts inventory, bookkeeping procedures and to quickly identify what parts he may need when responding to a trouble call. He is also prepared to provide a service to others who may have some use for a computer in their business. A few are already making use of it and Charlie would be glad to talk to others who may consider taking advantage of it.

A Friend Is Lost

To many long time visitors to Haliburton, Stan Parish was not just a businessman but an institution. "Stan's Gas and Gab" it said on the sign, and that's exactly what it meant when Stan was around. The gab was always cheerful and usually came with a little joke. Stan passed away Friday night and he will be missed tremendously by both those who knew him well, and those who only met him occasionally. Haliburton County has lost an ardent supporter and a true friend. Our sincere sympathy to his remaining family.

Freak accident claims life of Bancroft area hunter in Bruton

A freak accident near a hunt camp in Bruton Township has taken the life of a 62 year old Bancroft man.

George Thomas Whitfield died last Wednesday afternoon when he was struck by a tree.

Police say Whitfield was one of a number of hunters from the Bancroft area who had been staying at a camp near Byers Lake. For reasons that were not made clear, the victim and a friend had cut down a 12 m. birch tree which caught on a branch of a smaller tree.

Whitfield was attempting to release the felled tree with an axe when a limb of the smaller tree broke and the birch tree plunged to the ground. The victim attempted to get out of the way but the birch tree kicked back, first striking him in the head and then falling on him.

Coroner Dr. Blair Pierce of Haliburton pronounced the man dead at the scene.

No post mortem was ordered and no inquest will be held.

OPP report

MUNICIPALITY OF DYSART ET AL NOTICE

IN THE MATTER OF THE MUNICIPAL ACT AND IN THE MATTER OF A PROPOSED BY-LAW OF THE MUNICIPALITY OF DYSART ET AL TO STOP UP, CLOSE AND CONVEY A PORTION OF PART OF THE ORIGINAL 66 FOOT ROAD ALLOWANCE BETWEEN LOTS 5 AND 6, CONCESSION 4, IN THE TOWNSHIP OF DUDLEY, IN THE PROVISIONAL COUNTY OF HALIBURTON.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN, pursuant to Chap. 284, Sec. 443 of The Municipal Act as amended, that the Township Council of the Municipality of Dysart Et Al proposes to consider and if deemed advisable, to pass at its regular meeting to be held at the Council Chambers, Haliburton, Ontario on Monday, December 8, 1980, a By-Law to Close, Stop up and Convey the following:

ALL AND SINGULAR that certain parcel or tract of land and premises, situate, lying and being in the Township of Dudley, in the Provisional County of Haliburton, being composed of part of the original allowance for road between Lots 5 and 6, Concession IV, in the said township, and which said parcel or tract of land is more particularly described as follows:

PREMISING that the bearings herein are astronomic and derived from Registered Plan 498.

COMMENCING at a point in the Westerly limit of the said Lot 6, Concession IV, which is distant 150.06 feet measured on a course of North 79 degrees 13 minutes 55 seconds West from a point which is distant 1308.48 feet measured on a course of North 15 degrees 19 minutes West from the South Westerly angle of the said Lot 6;

THENCE North 79 degrees 13 minutes 55 seconds West, 38.78 feet;

THENCE South 88 degrees 19 minutes 20 seconds West, 34.95 feet to the North Easterly angle of Lot 32, Registered Plan 498

THENCE Southerly along the Easterly limit of the aforesaid Lot 32 on a course of South 20 degrees 55 minutes East, 214 feet more or less to the inner limit of the original allowance for road along the shore of Long Lake;

THENCE Easterly, parallel to and 66 feet measured perpendicularly from the original shore of Long Lake to a point in the Westerly limit of the said Lot 6, Concession IV;

THENCE North 20 degrees 55 minutes West, 185 feet more or less to the Point of Commencement.

WHICH SAID parcel or tract of land may be further illustrated, shown in heavy outline on a plan by Paul Wilson, O.L.S., dated October 30, 1980, and which Plan of Survey is available for inspection at the Municipality of Dysart Et Al Office, Haliburton, Ontario.

AND TAKE FURTHER NOTICE that before passing the said By-Law at its meeting to be held at the time and place above mentioned the Township Council of the Municipality of Dysart Et Al shall then and there hear in person or by his Counsel, Solicitor or Agent, any person who claims that his land will be affected by the said By-law and who applies to be heard.

DATED AT HALIBURTON, ONTARIO this 4th day of November, 1980.
